ABSTRACT

Today, such departments in the press, i.e. the absence of a correspondent specializing in the military field, their staff and work activities are reduced or generalized to other departments, causing a problem related to specialization in the field. A similar situation can be seen in the example of "Markaziy Fergana" newspaper. Previously, the legal department prepared materials related to the military field, but now, as a result of the reduction of staff, it is possible to see that the legal department has been closed and they have been transferred to the social department.

F. Montague, "Markazii Fergana" newspaper, military mass media, fact, evidence, specialized reporter, military-related materials.

Introduction

"Weekly News", the first newspaper in Britain, can be mentioned when it comes to printed publications, which first covered war articles on military topics. The 30-year war (1618-1648) is the reason why this newspaper, which expresses the views of the English historian F. Montague, appeared in 1621. The newspaper provided detailed information about the war with France and informed its main citizens about the sad details of the war.

The military factor influenced the founding of the Vedomosti newspaper in Russia. This publication, which was published in accordance with the decree of Peter I on December 16, 1702, served to cover the war of 1700-1721.

In the early years of independence, some republican publications had special correspondents who prepared military-related materials, and because they were experts in their field, the prepared articles were important in specialization in the field. Today, such departments in the press, i.e. the absence of a correspondent specializing in the military field, their staff and work activities have been reduced or generalized to other departments, are causing a problem related to specialization in the field. A similar situation can be seen in the example of "Markaziy Fergana" newspaper. Previously, the legal department prepared materials related to the military field, but now, as a result of the reduction of staff, it is possible to see that the legal department has been closed and they have been transferred to the social department. Now let's think about how a journalist specializing in the social sphere can write an article on a military or legal topic. The lack of specialization in the preparation of materials cannot but cause a number of problems and shortcomings:

- most of the covered materials are given mainly in the form of reports or in the genre of information to provide information;

- he is afraid to give information based on facts, or his complete lack of knowledge of the field gives a warning, and simply prepares material in the form of emotions;
- more events will be covered;
- the essence of the reforms is not reflected in the material;
- the process of reforms and the work done on them are not analyzed;
- information about events that reflect the country's defense potential, combat training exercises at field training grounds is rare or is given in the form of interesting news;
- there is a lot of superficial coverage of army life. The reason is not to go to the military unit, and in some cases, material is prepared based on the life of the army based on slightly outdated knowledge;
- writing and creating a topic in a political tone weakens the audience's interest, because not all of the audience has enough knowledge about politics;
- the priorities of the state's defense policy are not fully reflected in the materials;
- The system of political, economic, military, socio-legal, organizational measures that ensure the territorial integrity of the Republic of Uzbekistan, the peaceful life and security of its inhabitants is not given enough information, and mostly all are written on the basis of the same template;
- coverage of topics on holidays or convocation events and focusing all attention on it, trendiness is felt.

In order to increase the interest in the military field in the society, if there are important factors such as strengthening the sphere of influence of information, provoking people's thoughts and reactions, then the interest in the field will increase. For this:

- organization of meetings with military units and camps for journalists in the military mass media;
- in the mass media not directly specialized in the military sphere, in particular, electronic mass media, social networks, to provide wider coverage of the military topic and increase the quality of broadcasts;
- holding a press tour, press conference, media tours in order to develop the activities of the press services of the military sector and strengthen cooperation with the mass media;
- attracting journalists to practical trainings held at landfills and adequately answering all the questions that interest them;
- organizing extreme, war and conflicts at landfills, organizing special trainings on how journalists move in them and giving necessary advice;
- the main purpose of organizing contests, interest in covering the military topic in OA, creating new approaches;
- studying foreign experience and organizing shift training based on them;
- it is required to study which areas of the military sphere the audience is interested in and their opinions through social surveys.

The military is considered as the main factor in the formation of interest in the field of a healthy and competent generation. Because when children are asked for the first time what they will be in the future, they will definitely answer "I will be a soldier". In fact, before the child's eyes, the steps of the military uniform, handsome soldiers and, of course, the defenders who always train in sports are embodied in their eyes. Because children have a dream, they must be real defenders of their family and homeland and must be strong in the future. From childhood, parents provide them with all the conditions for them to grow up to be beneficial to the family. At this point, it is necessary to cover widely in the mass media the materials reflecting the potential of the Uzbek army, and to fully cover all the conditions for them.

Modern problems in the issue of material preparation in the military direction. Due to the fact that it is mainly a socio-political direction, military-themed materials may not attract the audience at first glance. However, nowadays everyone is interested in materials related to controversial issues. Deficiencies in field illumination are evaluated as follows:

- Most of the material is presented in a formal way.
- Military terms, unfamiliar terms and names are used a lot.
- The topic will not be revealed in depth due to the information within the scope of the service, which must be kept confidential.
- Lack of access to information from military agencies.
- At the same time, journalists lack specialization in the military field.

In the materials of the newspaper related to the war process, the following aspects are mainly distinguished:

- presenting facts with biased comments, creating conflicting situations based on them;
- disseminating information that has not been fact-checked, i.e. disinformation;
- mocking and humiliating the enemy;
- posting unconfirmed information;

On the one hand, the newspaper turned into a highly effective weapon in the war, and on the other hand, it served the formation of military journalism.

It can also be concluded from the fact that the Russians eagerly awaited the issues of the newspaper covering the topic of war, that the colonialists tried to justify their policy of aggression, show the combat potential of their army, raise the fighting spirit of the soldiers, and frighten the local population with their armed force. So, military journalism was used as an ideological weapon.
