Introduction

"Educating young people in the spirit of patriotism" means teaching young people love and respect for their country, homeland, national language and culture. This reflects the high level of training of their countries in mutual cooperation in raising them as citizens, independent and patriotic people.

Young people learn the spirit of patriotism by understanding their country, language, history, literature, art and other national-cultural activities. This is to provide them with a national identity, always appreciate their country with love and pay attention to its history, and learn to share their contribution to the development of the country with others.

The spirit of patriotism is a unique part of local history and nationality, and young people always value and believe in their country. This will help them to return to their country, fulfill their civic duties and strengthen their national and moral values.

Young people learn about their country with love, joy and enthusiasm, which develops confidence and cultural attachment to their country. The spirit of patriotism enables them to be civil, creative, balanced and work together for their country.

Education of youth in the spirit of patriotism is very important for every country. The spirit of patriotism is a value that includes respect for the state and national values of citizens, receiving its protection, serving it, as well as developing national patriotism. Young people who are brought up with patriotism will become good citizens by repeatedly studying the country's independence, values, history, language and culture.

The effect of patriotic education on young people is very great. This will become the person who supports the great honor, morality, national value, humanity, protects the health of friends and gives advice for the future of the state. Young people become citizens who increase their knowledge and skills in the spirit of patriotism, support their national identity, and engage in creative and social activities.

The purpose of "Education of Youth in the Spirit of Patriotism in the Age of Industrial and Technological Development" is to teach and develop patriotic, national, cultural and welfare values among young people. This aims to ensure that the state learns its patriotic, national identity and respects and respects its other values for the future development of the state.

It involves educating young people, introducing them to the perspective of the state, national values, history, justice and its important values, teaching them to be important members of society and to serve it usefully. It aims to acquaint young people with the important tasks and goals of the state and teach them about patriotism and the principles of its structure.

The importance of local studies in education in the spirit of patriotism is great. This means that local studies are concerned with the national, cultural and historical values of a person, and are related to the history and culture of one's country, its people, its language, spirituality and social systems. To be worthy of one's country, people and society with dignity, respect and love, to support its economic and social development, to understand the important tasks in one's country, to be ready to fulfill them - this is all that can be done. is related to the themes of the spirit of patriotism.

Local studies means educating a person on the path of protection, on the basis of independent, fair and humane values. These characteristics do not have a negative impact on a person's country, people, and the world, but are important in forming a useful and mutually balanced citizen.

The importance of visual art works based on the expression "Education in the spirit of patriotism" is important for the development of people's nationality, patriotic feeling, and the ability to manage a prosperous society, mastering national-ethical tasks, strengthening the mutual cooperation of the state, and developing and managing society in a balanced manner. The tasks and importance of works of fine art in educating in the spirit of patriotism are understood as follows:

Development of historical movements and national identity: People can be closer to their own history and national identity through historical inspiration and monuments of visual arts. This makes them feel the development, progress and high spirituality of their homeland.

Developing a sense of patriotism and moral freedom: According to the events reflected in the works of visual arts, people develop a sense of patriotism and thereby achieve service to the nation. They know the characteristics and rights of their country and know themselves as its partners and leaders and cooperate in its management.

Community unity and community development: By considering the advanced national colors and historical features of fine arts, it plays its role in community unity and community development. Seeing themselves, these works increase love, friendship and misunderstanding in the community.

In conclusion, in this aspect, visual arts are very important in educating in the spirit of patriotism. They are important in increasing people's love for nationality and homeland, strengthening the community and unity of society, developing moral and social freedom, increasing mutual cooperation of the state, progress and development.
