Ensuring the unity and security of the nation is indeed the main function of the military. The main purpose of the military forces is to ensure the territorial integrity, sovereignty and national interests of one state. Military personnel are trained, equipped and mobilized in order to protect the people from external threats, protect their borders and ensure the safety of their citizens. By ensuring national security, the military plays a very important role in maintaining the unity and stability of the nation.

Introduction:

The role of military service in ensuring the solidarity and security of one nation is incomparable. The military, with the responsibility of protecting the motherland and its citizens, ensures the preservation of national unity, the protection of the sovereignty and interests of the nation. This article will study why maintaining solidarity and security is the main task of the military.

1. Preservation of national unity:

The United Nation stands strong against external threats and internal conflicts. The military plays a very important role in protecting the borders of the country, maintaining law and order, ensuring national solidarity by preventing violence or aggression from violating the system of society. The military through its presence and behavior forms a sense of patriotism and national identity, strengthening the bonds that hold the nation together.

2. Asserting sovereignty:

The military serves as the last defense mechanism of the nation's sovereignty. By stopping potential enemies and being prepared to respond to any aggression, the military protects the territorial integrity of the people, ensuring that their borders remain safe. This ability to hinder and defend is necessary to maintain popular independence and autonomy in the face of external pressure and difficulties.

3. Resistance to threats and risks:

The military service makes it important to identify and mitigate threats that may undermine the security of the people. This includes combating terrorism, responding to natural disasters, overcoming emerging challenges such as cybersecurity. The military trains its personnel to be prepared for various scenarios, providing them with the necessary skills and funds to effectively eliminate emerging threats.

4. Ensuring stability and peace:

A stable and peaceful nation is fundamental to social progress and progress. The military plays a serious role in maintaining internal stability by assisting civil authorities in emergencies, supporting law enforcement, and participating in peacekeeping missions. Through this, they contribute to the organization of a safe environment necessary for the prosperity of citizens.

5. Development of international relations:

Strong military can contribute to negative international relations. A nation can gain the respect and trust of other states by demonstrating its ability and tolerance to protect its borders and its citizens. This forms alliances, partnerships and partnerships with other nations, ensuring peace and stability on a global scale.

From the first days of independence of our state, the issues of organizing the defense of the country and developing legal criteria for the functioning of our armed forces were given serious importance by the president of the Republic of Uzbekistan, as the Supreme Commander-in-chief of the Armed Forces. Based on the military-political and military-strategic situation that arose in the region, and from the analysis of the development of political processes taking place in the world, the Armed Forces of the Republic of Uzbekistan were created, capable of protecting the interests of the state.

Several regulatory documents on the organization of the Armed Forces of our country were signed by the president of the Republic of Uzbekistan. Among the first of them is the signing of the decree of the president of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated January 6, 1992 “on the creation of the Ministry of Defense Affairs of the Republic of Uzbekistan and the General Staff of the Armed Forces”. Their goal was to create a step-by-step professional army, a small number in composition, compact, but Mobile, equipped with modern military equipment and weapons, capable of independently and reliably protecting the security of Uzbekistan.

During the years of independence, a number of decisions made by the government increased the prestige of military service among our people and the youth of the country. All this in practice made it possible to provide the armed forces with local military personnel born in the Republic of Uzbekistan. In the last years, the consistent construction and reform of the National Army radically changed the image, organizational structure of the Armed Forces, the system of troop management, the system of training military personnel, the troops were provided with the latest examples of weapons and equipment. At the same time, taking into account the geostrategic location of our republic, as well as the military-political situation that is taking place in the region, military districts and the structure and tasks of the troops were revised. Measures are being taken to provide troops with the most modern examples of weapons and military equipment.

The Republic of Uzbekistan in practice has its own modern, compact, mobile, National Army capable of reliably protecting the security, stability of our country, the inviolability of borders-Miz, the peaceful and peaceful life of our people.

It should be noted that in peacetime, the Armed Forces ensure the territorial integrity and security of the Republic of Uzbekistan, are one of the means of eliminating security threats, and in wartime, the armed forces are fully capable of fulfilling the tasks of protecting state security and sovereignty. Today, regular work is being carried out in the troops of the Armed Forces of the Republic of Uzbekistan on the professional skills of military personnel, the real improvement of the combat capability of military units and units, the improvement of the system of organizing combat and spiritual and educational training of troops.

Conclusion:

The main task of the military is to ensure the unity and security of the nation. By maintaining national cohesion, ensuring sovereignty, resisting threats, ensuring stability and further promoting international relations, the military plays an important role in protecting the interests of the people and ensuring the well-being of its citizens. The dedication and tolerance of military personnel is key to maintaining a safe and unified nation, allowing their people to flourish and flourish.
